

Brent Schooley

Brent Schooley hails from Ypsilanti, MI, a suburb outside Detroit, MI. He graduated from Ypsilanti High School in 1999. Brent has performed with several marching bands, drum corps and indoor performing ensembles. The highlights of his performance career are four years with the Glassmen Drum and Bugle Corps from Toledo, OH (1998 – 2001); four years with the U.S. Marine Drum and Bugle Corps “The Commandant’s Own” in Washington, D.C. (2001 – 2005); two years with the Syracuse Brigadiers (2002 – 2003) from Syracuse, NY; and two years as the Drum Major for the University of North Texas Green Brigade Marching Band. Brent has 15 years of marching experience on a multitude of instruments.

During Brent’s time in the Marine Corps, he served as a Contra for all four seasons. In addition to his duties as a Contra player, he served as the Assistant Drill Master and Drill Designer. Brent has taught for 10 years in multiple states including Michigan, Maryland, Ohio, Virginia and Texas. He has participated in show design and basics programs in almost all venues of marching.

Brent currently lives in Haslet, TX and is a full time Music Education student at the University of North Texas with a Tuba concentration. He also works at the Naval Air Station Ft. Worth fulfilling his obligation to the U.S. Marine Corps. Brent is ready for the summer and excited to see a new level of marching excellence from the performers.
