

Samantha Cope

Sam Cope began her percussion career with Kings High School of Kings Mills, Ohio. She then went on to become a member of the Bluecoats Drum and Bugle Corps front ensemble in 2006 and 2007. With the Bluecoats Sam performed in the 2007 Percussive Arts Society International Conference marching percussion clinic.

Sam was also a member of the Rhythm X Indoor Percussion Ensemble in 2005, 2006, 2007 and 2008. In 2007, she accompanied the group on its European tour performing in educational clinics and exhibitions in England, Belgium and the Netherlands. In 2008, Sam was proud to help the group win its first gold medal in WGI's Independent World Class. Sam currently teaches the Kings High School and Bellbrook High School marching bands, as well as Rhythm X. She also teaches percussion lessons privately in the Cincinnati and Dayton area. Sam recently graduated from Miami University in 2008 with a degree in English Education.